TRIPP

King John

King Henry

King Edward

Howard family

Lord Howard's fifth son's name charged to Tripp by Henry V.

The name Tripp spelled without the final "e" designates the descendants of Howard's fifth son.

The first Tripp in America was - John Tripp of Portsmouth, R. I. b. 1610 d. 1678
m. Mary Paine dau. of Anthony b. d. 1687

2nd generation
Peleg Tripp b. 1642 d. 1714
m. Anne Sisson dau. of Richard and Mary b. d. 1713

3rd generation
Job Tripp b. d.

4th generation
Peleg Tripp b. d.
m.

5th generation
Caleb Tripp b. d.
m. Mary Everett b. Dec. 13. 1733 d. Apr. 5, 1810

6th generation
William Tripp b. 1759 or 1762 d. 1851
m. Leah VanBuskirk b. 1765/6 d. 1849

Note: There is a difference of opinion as to the parentage of William Tripp, some members of the family claim he was the son of Joseph and Hannah (Rice) Tripp. However, there is no Joseph Tripp mentioned in the Tripp family Bible, but the birth and death of Mary Everett "the wife of Caleb Tripp," is recorded which leads one to believe they were the parents of William, the Revolutionary soldier.

Tripp (continued)

The name Tripp has been given numerous derivations. One speaks of Tripp or Trippner or Trippenmaker as a maker of short gowns. Another derivation more pleasing to the pride of the owners of the name is as follows: Tradition says of Lord Howard's fifth son at the siege of Boulonge that Henry V. asked how they took the town and castle, Howard answered, "I tripped up the walls". Said his majesty, "Tripp shall be thy name and no longer Howard", and honored him with a scaling ladder for a coat of arms."

The Tripps, probably lived in Kent, England and trace their line back as far as the Norman conquest, the name being found in Doomsday Book in a title of land. King James 11., in his autobiography, mentions Thomas Tripp as aiding him to escape from St. James palace after the beheading of Charles 1.

John Tripp is supposed to have come from England as an apprentice of Holden. He was a carpenter, and settled in Portsmouth, R. I.

Excerpt from letter written by Isaac Tripp Jr., Jan. 1899.
"The history of our family on the Tripp side is mostly traditional. However, I give you the little knowledge I have of my ancestry. My great-grandfather was of English descent came to this country previous to the Revolutionary War. At the beginning of the war it is said he was chosen and aided as quarter master on behalf of the Patriot Army. I should judge he was not a literary man for I was informed that he kept accounts of his doings in his head. Keeping no books to the satisfaction of the authorities.

William Tripp was his only surviving son, who was my grandfather. He was in active service in the Patriot Army and received a pension from the government. He died at Floyd, New York having been a long and respected resident of that locality. Three sons and two daughters survived him - Isaac, William, Stephen, Mary and Clara. All were married. Children survived."

According to a letter written by George L. Randall, New Bedford, ~~R. I.~~ Mass. to Claudine Tripp in McGrawville, New York, dated November 1921 -
"Caleb Tripp was a major in the French and Indian War, also serving in the Revolutionary War - No dates given - He died at Lake George, New York."

On the records of New York State Comptrollers Office, Albany, New York:
The name of Caleb Tripp appears twice in the papers relating to the Albany County regiment commanded by Col. VanWoert, as follows:
On a receipt roll of said regiment; also, on an order that payment be made due him "for services" be delivered to one Bill Smith.

Order dated at Saratoga, March - 1786.

*Caleb Tripp, may have been the son of Peleg and Mary (Gardiner) Tripp of North Kingston, R. I. who were married Jan. 28, 1728. Their children were: Peleg, Caleb, Mary, Lydia, Tabitha.

"William Tripp was a soldier in the Revolutionary War. He moved to Floyd, Oneida County, New York, When his son Isaac (born in Duchess County 1792) was a little boy."

Record and Pension Office, Washington, D. C.
"The name Caleb Tripp, and the name William Tripp appear on a receipt roll dated April 12, 1786, of VanVoghten's regiment of New York Malitia, Revolutionary War, with remarks showing that the soldiers named received pay for services rendered, but the period of service is not shown."

The Department of the Interior, Bureau of Pensions.
"William Tripp made an application for pension on June 8, 1829, at which time he was seventy years old and residing at Stuben, New York.
His pension was allowed for nine months active service as a private in the New York troops, Revolutionary War. He enlisted at Dover, New York and served under Capt. Childs and Col. Livingston.

The date of William Tripp's birth given by the D. A. R. is 1759, while the record in the Tripp family Bible is that of Jan. 13, 1762.

Note: Ada Tripp Downing, of Pleasant Valley, New york, writes in a letter dated October, 1921:
"The dates of birth and death on William Tripp's tombstone are so worn they cannot be deciphered."

In a letter from Marietta J. Tibbets, 533 Manhatten Ave., New York City, date April 15, 1901, to Claudine Tripp she writes:
"on page 115 of the book 'New York in The Revolution', is the record of our great-grandfather, and on page 78 that of Job Tripp our great-great-grandfather." She also writes in the same letter, "There is no difficulty at all in getting proved the fact of our revolutionary forefathers."

Orris Tripp, in a letter to Claudine Tripp from Floyd, New York, date February 18, 1901 writes:
I have no particular data that would assist you in joining the D. A. R. as the Tripps are poor hands for keeping records. However, I had some correspondence with a cousin Miss Tibbets, of New York City, and I believe she has joined the order. She is a grand-daughter of father's sister, your father will remember her. Aunt Clara Clark who married 'Keleb' Clark. She can give you useful and necessary information.
Miss Tibbets holds a good position in the schools of New York City."

Sincerely;
Your Uncle
(signed) O. R. Tripp

George L. Randall, writes from New Bedford, Mass. Oct 18, 1921; to Claudine Tripp:
"In comparing notes I find your papers do not agree with Miss Tibbets' and my records differ from both. I presume Miss Tibbets' are correct as they have been accepted by the D. A. R. - but yet the birth of William Tripp does not agree as it is given as 13th of Jan. 1762. I had him son of Caleb (5), and Mary (Everett) Tripp; Peleg (4) - Job (3) - Peleg (2) John (1). I have written Miss Tibbets calling her attention to the matter."

(Signed) George L. Randall.

Miss Tibbets' record:
John (1) - Peleg (2) - Job (3) - Isaac (4) - Job and Hannah (Rice) Tripp (5) parents of William.

Isaac Tripp Jr., was born in Floyd, Oneida County, New York. He lived at home with his parents until nineteen years of age. In a newspaper article written at the time of a Tripp family reunion September thirtieth, 1889 he speaks of "enjoying the providential care and love of parents through infancy and even early manhood," and how he "loved to cherish the recollection of their many virtues."
He worked on the farm through the summer but in the winter attended the district school. Leaving Floyd he entered the Clinton Liberal Institute. Upon completion of two terms he became a teacher in the district school at Wright's Settlement in the town of Rome, New York, he resumed his studies at Hampton Springs, when about twenty-three years old he located at Phelps. Part of the time during his residence at Phelps he attended the academy at Oaks Corners and some of the time he taught school. He studied at Canandagua Academy for a year. By teaching he was able to earn enough money to continue his studies and at the same time prepare himself for a course at Geneva College, now known as Hobert College. He graduated from Hobert College in 1846. Later he began the study of law in the city of Utica, New York, while studing he was called upon to act as principal of the Utica Free Academy for awhile. He was admitted to the bar in Albany, New York, July 4, 1848. Later he opened a law office in Utica where he practised for over fifty years. He was a strong Democrat and during his younger years took an active part in the campaigns. Among his friends was Horatio Seymour, who was well known in the political world,- In 1852 was elected govenor of New York, and in 1868 was nominated presidential candidate by the Democratic national confention but was defeated by Grant.
When Mr. Tripp's daughter was married a gift of a silver coffee urn was given to her by Horatio Seymour, which is greatly cherished by members of the family. The urn bears the engraving "To Timour from Horatio Seymour."
Mr. Tripp was a member of the church of the Reconcillation, and attended services regularly until taken ill. He was clerk of the board of trustees for several years. Throughout his life he preformed his duties honestly and well, and was loved and respected by his friends, and family.

Dobbs Ferry.

"Dobbs Ferry, the ridge of land on which it is located rising from the lordly Hudson swells to the sky, and then gently slopes to the modest Nepperha, or Saw Mill River. By charter the land upon which Dobbs Ferry is situated was granted to Frederick Philipse, and the Indians also gave the title to the lands by purchase. Col. Frederick Philipse, grandson of the original proprietor espoused the cause of the mother country during the revolution. From Westchester County Philipse removed to Chester, England, where his monument may now be seen on the walls of the cathedral.

Many Europeans were drawn to this locality by the natural charm it possessed, and the healthful climate.
Dobbs Ferry takes its name from an immigrant from Sweden, who eked out his living as a fisherman, by ferrying travelers across the river to Sneeden's Landing. We have no evidence at hand to substantiate any statement as to the part taken by Dobbs during the revolution. His must have been a trying part to play, for this region was the neutral ground. Sometimes in the possession of the British sympathizers, and then again dominated by the patriots. If he had the wisdom to trim his sails to the wind he must have reaped a fine harvest during that trying period, for the route through Dobbs Ferry across the river to Sneden was a much frequented highway during the struggle for Independence.
After the Legislature of the State of New York confiscated the land upon which Dobbs Ferry stands, it was purchased by Van Brugh Livingston.
Great efforts have been made to change the name of this village, but all have failed. By any other name Dobbs Ferry would still be a village of beauty, and a joy forever, to those who know her charms. The attempt to throw ridicule upon her name has never succeeded, and those who know the place, and have lived here feel as if the (quaint) homely title has the one great merit namely its association with the historical annals of this country. Every part of her soil is hallowed by some event connected with the heroic struggle for victory.
This stratigic point was early noted by the patriots, and was made a means for transmission of supplies, and mails between New England States and the South. It was of vital importance that the two sections should be kept in sympathy with each other."

Note: According to family tradition Dobbs was a Tory, or favored allegiance to Great Britian, and fled to Canada.

Excerpt from a letter written by Isaac Tripp of Utica, New York.

Nov. 10, 1899
"John Rudman was the father of my wife (Emily Rudman). His father was a resident of Baltimore, Maryland. Well-to-do and a large slave owner. His son John came from Baltimore to New York City, when quite young. For many years was engaged in wholesale and retail butcher trade. He was the leading dealer on Fulton and Market Streets for a long time. And finally after acquiring a comfortable income retired from business, and settled in the town of Benton, Yates County, New York, near the village of Penn Yan and where he met his death by a runaway horse. He was highly respected especially by the Methodist church, which mourned his loss - being an active and foremost member thereof.
His wife having grievously and sadly survived the sudden death of her husband died two years later. He died at Benton, Yates County, Aug. 28, 1841."

Note: A small beaded bag made by Mary Dobbs, of exquisite handiwork is in the possession of her great-grand-daughter Mrs. Frank Schroeter, Plainfield, New Jersey.

She was married to Mr. Theodore Ayers at the "Sycamores," the home of her parents in Loantaka Heights (Spring Valley). They lived to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on October 9, 1903, and held a reception at their home on Franklin Pla Morristown, under the same chandelier that shed its mellow light over the joyous gathering fifty years previous. Mrs. Ayers wore the dress she wore at her wedding while Mr. Ayers wore the vest he had kept for fifty years. In all the fifty years of their married life, there had been no death in their immediate family nor in their home. They lived in Morristown from 1854 to 1881 when they returned to the "Sycamores", at Loantaka Heights and lived twenty years in Mrs. Ayers' girlhood home. Later, they returned to Morristown, where Mrs. Ayers died at the ripe old age of eighty years. They owned several very fine homes in Morristown. The one o the corner of Maple Avenue and DeHart Street, and the one on Franklin Place have been torn down, but the homestead at Loantaka Heights owned by Charles Scribner is still standing and in excellent condition.

A Lovely Wedding.

"A house full of guests were entertained by Mrs. John Hanlon and Mr and Mrs. Theodore Ayers at their delightful country seat "The Sycamores" overlooking the Loantaka Valley on Thursday evening the occasion being, the marriage of Miss Mary Louise Hanlon to Col. Alexander O. Brodie of Prescott, Arizona. No wedding had been held in the house since the bride's mother was wedded to Rev. John Hanlon.

Rev. Thomas Hanlon D.D., President of Pennington Seminary, and John Atkinson D.D.,.of Jersey City, both uncles of the bride officiated at the wedding. Mr Brodie an ex-officer of the U.S. Army and has been Col. in the Territorial Malitia."

Col. Brodie graduated from West Point year 1870 with the rank of Second Lieutenant. In 1875 he was promoted to First Lieutenant. In the Spanish American War Col. Brodie was made Major of the first squadron of Rough Riders. He was wounded in the right arm at Las Guasemas in 1898.

In 1902 he was made Gov. of Arizona, and served until 1905 when Pres. Theodore Roosevelt brought him to Washington and commissioned him a major of regulars.

In addition to his service against the Indians in the West and the Spaniards in Cuba, Col. Brodie also served from 1907 in the Philippines, and was from 1907 to 1911 the Adjutant General of the Western Division of the army, with headquarters in San Francisco.

The Indians he fought were the Apaches in Arizona and the Nez Perces Indians in Washington Territory.

In his civilian life he was a rancher in Kansas, a miner in Arizona and a business man in New York. He served forty-three years in the army, exclusive of four years at West Point.

When the Walnut Dam gave way in Arizona in 1890 Col. Brodie rescued Miss Mary Hanlon from being drowned, who was traveling at that time in Arizona. This terrifying and exciting experience ended in romance, and they were married in the home of the bride's aunt Mrs. Theodore Ayers, who was living at that time in their country home in Spring Valley (Loantaka Valley), N.J.

Col. Brodie died in Haddonfield, New Jersey.

Ayers Genealogy.

The ancestors of the Ayers family can be traced back in a direct line to William the Gonqueror. The first of the family, as far as is known, being Truelove.
The name Truelove, as the story is told, was changed to Ayre at the battle of Hastings A. D. 1066. Duke William was thrown from his horse,and his helmet beaten into his face, which Truelove observing pulled off and horsed him again, the duke then told him "Thou shalt be from Truelove called Ayre (or Air) because thou hast given me air to breathe." After the battle the duke on inquiry respecting him found him severely wounded. He ordered the utmost care taken of him, and on his recovery gave him lands in Derby in reward for his services.
The descent is clearly traced to Thomas Ayer one of the oldest families in Darbyshire.

Thomas Eyre Esq., of New Sarum, linelly descended from Humphrey Le Heyer, of Bromham, Wiltshire. He was fifth in descent from Galpedan Le Heyer in time of Edward II. Thomas Eyre held lands in Wimborn County, Dorset in the twenty-first year of Elizabeth's reign. (1579)

By the will of his father, Obadiah Ayers, he inherited sixty acres, beside other land. In the year 1717 he bought land in Somerset County and moved to Basking Ridge, New Jersey, before 1720; became one of the earliest settlers. All his children settled in Basking Ridge except Thomas, who remained in Woodbridge. In 1731 John Ayers conveyed to seven trustees one and one half acres of land for a log meeting house. In 1747 a frame building was built that remained for ninety years. For one hundred and twenty years his descendants were members of this church.

Barbara Ruckle Heck, one of the founders of American Methodism, was born in Ballingram (Ballygarry) County, Limerick, Ireland, where German refugees from the Palatenate had been permitted to settle in 1709. With her husband Paul Heck, she came to New York in 1760, on the ship "Perry", which also brought Philip Embury and his wife, and other Ballingrams who had been converted to Methodism in Ireland. Barbara Heck was greatly distressed by their backsliding, and one day in 1766 a card game which she found going on set her on fire with indignation, she denounced the players in no uncertain terms, and then went across the street to the home of Embury, who had been a local preacher in Ireland, startled him by declaring "Philip you must preach to us, or we shall all go to Hell, and God will require our blood at your hands."
From this incident most Methodist date the beginning of the Wesleyan movement in America. Embury preached, Barbara Heck was there to encourage him and was an agency which in 1768, resulted in the erection of the first Wesleyan chapel in this country. She decided the plan, and is said to have helped raise the necessary funds for building the Old John Street Methodist Church in New York City.
The Hecks moved to Salem, in what is now Washington County, New York in 1770, where again they helped Embury found a Wesleyan Society.
Being Loyalist, just before the Revolution, they moved to Montreal and Paul Heck served in the English Army. Later they made their home in Augusta, Canada. Barbara died there on a summer day sitting outside by the St. Lawrence River, her Bible in her lap.

*The Bonsall family said to be her descendants.

An Obituary Notice.

In Dover, April 20, 1883 Dr. Columbus Beach age 67 years.

Dr Beach was descended from one of the old families of this section, whose residence for generations gave the family name to Beach Glen, where he was born August 6, 1815.
His great-great-grandfather, Benjamin Beach was one of the township officers of Hanover township, Hunterdon County, which then included all of the present Morris County in 1723. Abner Beach his great-grandfather was an Elder in the First Presbyterian Church, Morristown, New Jersey in 1752 but resided in the Parsippany neighborhood. He was one of the earliest to develope the iron industry in this section, driving a forge and bloomary. He died in 1769 and that same year his son Benjamin, then twenty-four years old, was appointed one of the collectors of the "minister's rates", in Rockaway parish. He was located at "Horse Pond" where in 1771 with his brother-in-law, Henry Tuttle, he purchased the Johnson Iron Works, as the forge was then called. He soon became sole Proprietor, and with his sons and grandsons operated it almost continually until its dam was washed away by a freshet in 1867. He was also owner of the Lord Sterling Mine, oldest opening in Hibernia, now the property of the New Jersey Iron Mining Co., and devised it with over one thousand acres of land about Beach Glen, bequeathing to his sons Chileon, and Samuel Serrin. He was a liberal supporter of the Rockaway Church, for twenty years a Justice of the Peace. His son Chileon Beach, the father of Dr. Beach, inherited with the large body of land lying west of Beach Glen brook, including the homestead.
His first wife was Cornelia DeCamp, sister of the late Mrs. Guy Hinchman and niece Mrs. Hannah Hoff, of Mt. Pleasant who died November 20, 1832. Mr. Beach married again in 1834 Catharine, widow of Cyrus Hartwell and sister of John Righter of Parsippany.
Mr. Beach died of exposure September 26, 1842 in his fifty-first year. Dr. Beach received his deploma from the Medical College in Philadelphia in 1837 when but twenty-two years of age. His father died in 1842. He was the owner of the Beach Hibernia mine which he sold to Conrad Poppenhuser, in 1866 for the sum of $125,000. He was nominated State Senator in 1870. Dr. Beach removed to Dover in 1872 became president of the National Union Bank which he held for four years. From 1875 to 1883 was Alderman of the town of Dover, for thirty-two years he was trustee of the old historic Presbyterian Church of Rockaway.
Dr. Beach married Miss Susan E. Halsey daughter of the late Samuel B. Halsey of Rockaway who survives him as do his children, Frederick H. Halsey of Dover, Mrs. James M. Bonsall of Morristown, Mrs. A. L. Loder, of Gunnison, Colorado, and Miss Marion Beach, now a pupil at Rye Seminary Westchester County, New York.
Burial will be in Rockaway.

He was constable and collector many years, became a large owner of real estate, ran a store, a hotel, a saw mill and a grist mill. He was a tall broad shouldered coarse featured man. ALLEN.

Samuel Allen, lived in Jefferson Village, Essex County, New Jersey, now called Maplewood on Ridgewood Road, about five or six hundred feet south of Mountain Avenue on west side. Later years it was known as the David Headley Place. Land extended to top of the mountain. The house was an old fashion tyle stood east and west with a hall through the middle and stood about where Mrs. Carey Headley's now stands. (1903)
Two streets and a number of houses are now on the lot. Samuel Allen probably built the house, which was taken down by David Headley's son Carey who built his house on the same spot. David Headley's land extended to the top of the mountain from the railroad. The writer, Horace Crowell thinks Samuel Allen did not come here until after the Revolutionary War as he evidently belonged to a military company from Morris County where he originally lived.

Spoor Family.

Jan Wybesse Spoor, born about 1643, acquired land of Johannes Clute between Albany and Schenectady in 1685, he is supposed to have been the same person who bought in 1662 "17 morgans of land over the kill at Catskill." He married Anna Maria Hanse who died before 1714.

No trace of Jan Spoor's burial place has ever been found.

Johannes Spoor was born in Albany and later lived in Kingston, New York. The marriage records of the Old Reformed Dutch Church (organized 1659) Kingston, New York reads - "Johannes Spoor j.m. (young or unmarried) born in Albanien and Mary Singer j.d. (young woman) born in Engeland, and both resid in Kingstowne". There were four of his children recorded among the baptisms of the Kingston Church at different intervals, 1701, 1703, 1711, and 1720. There are three others whose baptisms were recorded at Albany. He was one of the petitioners from Ulster Co. in a petition of the Protestants of America to King William III, dated December 30, 1701. In 1714 he was included in the Livingston Manor census. He joined the newly found church at Albany in August, 1722. Next we hear of him in 1731 when he held the title of captain. He held office of constable in Albany in 1735/6. Date of death unknown.

Johannes Spoor settled in Coxackie at an early date. The oldest original document pertaining to the family is an obligation and a receipt for its payment dated 1732 and 1733.
On Dec. 30, 1741, Johannes Spoor purchased of the Van Loons 45 acres of woodland in Coxsackie where he built the stone house which is still standing (1943). To this neighborhood the name Spoorenberg or Spoor's Hill was given. The house about two miles south of Coxsackie: it is constructed of flat stones firmly laid in morter and some of the window trimmings are of brick evidently imported. It has a broad front and a wide central hall with a characteristic double Dutch door; Large beams finished in natural wood, support the upper story; it has a large Dutch fire-place on the first floor and a second one is found in the cellar which served as the quarter of the slaves in winter, for the time of its construction it was an unusally fine country residence.

Johannes Spoor 11., in his will gives to his son Johannes Spoor - "my house, Bible, and my negro wench named Philes". After the decease of his wife Eva, he bequeaths to his son Derick, real estate in the County of Albany, etc.

Nicholas Spoor, married Maria VanVechten who was born year 1733. They lived in Loonenburg, N. Y. They may have had other children beside Johannes whose baptism is recorded at Coxsackie, N. Y. in 1760.

Obituary Notice.

An accident which has cast a gloom over our village (Whippany) and deprived us of one of our most worthy citizens occurred at Morris Plains last Sunday. During the afternoon Mr. E. P. Haslam paid a visit to Mr. Conklin a resident of that place who resides at five corners, and when in his carriage on his way home with his son and only a few rods from Mr. Conklin's house was run into by a passing team which so frightened his horse that it became unmanageable and the boy was thrown out, without however receiving any injury. Mr. Haslam in his endeavor to control the animal either fell or was thrown violently to the ground upon his head. He was immediately picked up and carried into the house of Mr. Conklin near by, but almost immediately after became unconscious and remained so until six o'clock Monday morning when he died. His remains will be taken to Jersey City for interment, where he was born and always resided up to about six years ago when he built himself a handsome residence nearly opposite that of his son-in-law, Mr. A. F. Paulmier, and has made his home here since. Mr. Haslam when a boy entered the house of Cairns & Co., dealers in silk and notions, in New York City and remained with it for many years, after he became a partner. During his connection with it he crossed the ocean thirty-six times, having been for years the principal purchaser for the firm, which is now out of existance, it having been superseded by that of Dickerhoff, Raffloer & Co., in which until recently Mr. Haslam, had an interest. His family, which consists of a wife and seven children, nearly all of the latter grown up, have the sympathy of the whole village in their bereavement, as Mr, Haslam was a kind neighbor and a friend to everybody, and everything in need of a friend. Strange to say not a bruise or a wound could be found upon the body by Dr. Douglas, who attended him, and his death was doubtless caused by concussion. (Death came Oct. 14th., 1889.)

Wedding in High Life.

Duncan avenue on the Hill, was ablaze yesterday (Dec. 22, 1880), on the occasion of the marriage of Miss Frances Haslam, daughter of Mr. E. P. Haslam, of Duncan avenue, Jersey City, to Mr. Andrew Paulmier, of the famous old Paulmier family, of this state. The wedding was one of the grandest social events which ever occured on the Hill, and a select gathering was assembled on the occasion, about 150 ladies and gentlemen filling the spacious parlors. The ceremony which was a very impressive one was performed by the Rev. J. Montgomery, pastor of Hedding M. E. Church after which the party sat down to one of Morrow & Co.'s finest collations. Among the popular society ladies who graced the occasion with their presence were Mrs. DeLong of Jersey avenue, Mrs. Livingston, Mrs. Ely and Miss Ely of Duncan avenue, Mrs Cairns, and a host of the happy groom's friends from Whippany, where he resides. The presents were numerous and particularly beautiful, among them being a silver tea set*, a magnificent bronz clock, with matching statuettes*. A pleasant feature of the gathering was that a rich bouquet was presented to each lady. At an early hour in the evening the happy couple started on a short wedding tour, and immediately on its conclusion the bride will give a reception at her villa in Whippany, New Jersey.

*. In possession of Mrs. Andrew Paulmier's nieces Mrs. John Spoor, Kingston New York and Mrs. Alfred Suttie, Madison, New Jersey.
